Frank Geßner

A photograph of a cluttered room, likely a studio or a storage space for art supplies. In the center, a wooden chair stands against a plain, light-colored wall. To the left, a silver tripod is positioned next to a tall, narrow wooden cabinet. On top of the cabinet is a framed portrait of a man with glasses. The floor is covered with various items: stacks of books, papers, and small framed pictures. To the right, more stacks of framed pictures are visible. The overall atmosphere is one of a busy, creative workspace.
